HOW A CHILD WAS SAVED

A REMARKABLE INCIDENT OF THE RAILROAD ACCIDENT AT BEAR SWAMP—A NEW-YORKER'S GRAPHIC STORY.

The Philadelphia Times gives an interesting and vivid account of the fatal disaster on the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Trenton, N. J., on Monday, as told by Mr. Peter Henry Deacon, a traveling salesman, of this city The father of the babe mentioned was Mr Augustus Ritter, a Philadelphia bookkeeper, 36 years of age, who was one of the two passengers killed, the other being Mrs. Lucretia Pennington, also of Philadelphia The latter was 39 years of age. Mr. Deacon says

"We left New York at twenty minutes past three. It was the fast express. We were due in Philadelphia, I understood, at ten minutes of five The train had four passenger cars and a baggage car. First was the smoking car, then a Pullman parlor car, and after that two regular passenger coaches I was in the next to the last There were about thirty in this car. I sat on the right hand side front, on the seat next but one to the front door. Directly opposite me sat a gentleman and his wife and baby. I remember these passengers particularly, because the baby, a pretty little thing in a white lace cap, was being danced upon its mother's knee, while the father kept teasing it as we came along Directly behind this family sat an old lady of about 80. Behind me sat an elderly gentleman, a German, I think. It was about ten minutes of four when we began to get near Trenton. I remember I looked at my watch and thought we had been traveling about an hour. I began to feel sleepy, and braced my feet against the aisle end of my seat and my head against the car window, and had closed my eyes, when I heard a woman scream. Before I had time to know what it meant the car was thrown violently to one side, careening over in the direction of the man and his wife opposite me. With my feet braced against the end of the seat and my body leaning the other way I could not, of course, go in that direction, but was thrown with my head against the window, which caused it to go crashing through. I wore a stiff black hat, and that, I am satisfied, saved my life. The pane went crashing to pieces, and when the car regained its balance my head came back inside again. And just now was the strangest part. As the car was pitched back into position again the little baby was thrown square into my arms, while the father, who sprang to catch it, secured hold of the little lace cap as the baby went flying to me and tore it off its head and retained it in his hand The woman was thrown across the aisle past me, toward the car door. Then reaction came in an instant, when the car, with a quick, sudden, sharp jerk, more violent than before, careened over. This time I felt myself going with it, when the strong hand of the passenger in the seat behind jerked me back toward the broken window, and I felt myself, baby and all, going out. I knew no more till I found myself, lying in a swamp about three feet below the railroad track, and the baby in my arms. It was not hurt. My head almost to my eyes was buried in mud. One shoe was missing from my foot, which was likewise imbedded in the mud, it had caught between the seats when they came crashing together, and being easy to draw had slipped off and left my foot free.

"Oh, it was fearful when I opened my eyes and looked up. Our car had been smashed like an egg-shell I can't compare it to anything else. As it careened over the second time the hindmost truck wheels of the car in the rear—which had jumped the track and ran right alongside ours on the opposite side from which I had been thrown out, until it had turned a complete somersault on end and dropped its hind truck, wheels and all, as it were, from the air—as our car careened over the second time this truck came crashing down on the roof, right overhead the seat where the man had sat with his wife and baby. The first thing I saw after I got up was the woman running about, wringing her hands and crying for somebody to save her husband. The German who sat in the seat behind me when the accident occurred came up to where I was and took the baby. It was not hurt. I rushed to the other side of the car, and there was a sickening sight. The father, had his body half way out of the window when the trucks came crashing down on him, smashing in the roof like an egg-shell and falling right across his waist. His brains were oozing out, blood was streaming all over his face, and he was quite dead—I don't think he lived an instant after the trucks struck him. In one hand he held his baby's little lace cap, and it could not be gotten out of his fingers. The wife was rushing wildly about, screaming for somebody to come and get her husband out. It was not until two or three passengers, one of them with the baby in his arms, had taken her in hand that she could be gotten away. The passengers got axes and cut the husband out. The old lady who sat in the seat behind the dead man was also badly crushed, and, I think, died a few minutes afterward. If it had not been for the passenger in the seat behind me pulling me back, I too, would have been crushed to death under the heavy trucks and the baby along with me. How the mother was saved I don't know. When the car pitched over the second time she was thrown asiant the aisle past my seat and toward the door. She was crushed between the seats and seriously hurt. Afterward she and her baby were cared for by passengers, who raised a purse of money for her and took her to the hotel. Her husband's watch was also given her by the German, who took it off his person in my presence."

The Journal says that the regular quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Maine Industrial School for Girls, in Hallowell, was held at the office of the institution on Wednesday. The affairs of the institution were found in a satisfactory condition, and all appeared gratified with the appearance and advancement of the inmates of the school. The want of another school building to accommodate the increasing demand for admission is still severely felt.

East Auburn has a grateful father and mother. Their oldest son, Georgie Morgan, while at play with other boys, Tuesday, fell into the mill-pond above the gate. The children were noisy, and so their appeals for help were at first construed. But Mr. Henry Drake, living near, ran down to the bank and saw the lad struggling in the deep water. Stepping in, he pulled the child out as he was going down, and saved him in time. The little brother of the rescued boy danced up and down, clapping his hands for joy.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Lewiston Journal says Mr. Allison Smith and a crew of men commenced the job of straightening, screwing up and crowning Main street bridge Thursday morning, for the cities of Lewiston and Auburn. Next Monday, the pavers will commence work, and the bridge will be closed to teams for two weeks, in which time it is thought the paving will be completed. Foot passengers, only, can cross in the meantime, and all teams will have to go around by Cedar St. The whole repairs will cost about $3,400. The line comes in the center of the current, and not in the center of the river, so Lewiston will bear about two-thirds, to Auburn one-third, of the expense ——Boys have entered themselves as candidates for the lockup by throwing mortar, stones, etc., at the railroad trains on the lower Maine Central. They make a special target of the eight o'clock evening freight from Farmington. Some houses just above the Chestnut street crossing are under repairs, and a lot of mortar is exposed. Two or three cars of Wednesday evening's train were plastered over with this mortar, as the train passed. The thing has occurred several times.——The grocers of Lewiston are much interested in the movement among the grocers of New England, to have raisins sold by net weight instead of by the box, and have uniform packages, if possible. One of our dealers opened a box of raisins a few days ago, which had an end-piece of solid wood over two inches thick. He had to pay the same price for the wood that he paid for the raisins. Under a net weight system, he would have paid for the raisins, only.

Kennebec.

The Journal says at a meeting of the stockholders of the Somerset Railroad Company, held at West Waterville, on the 8th inst, the following board of directors was chosen: Edward Rowe, Nathan Weston, John Ayer, William H. Brown, William Atkinson, John Carney, R. B Dunn, W. W. Pease, Albert Moore, G. T. Stevens and F W. Hill. The board directors subsequently made choice of John Ayer, Esq, President, Maj A. R Small, Treasurer, Hon. Edward Rowe, Clerk and Auditor. The report of Wm. M. Ayer, acting superintendent, shows the road bed and rolling stock to be in excellent condition.

The Lewiston Journal says: J F. Chadwick, of South China, met with a fearful accident on Monday, at Bolton Hill. His team, loaded with hay, passed over his arm, fracturing it dreadfully, the wheel passing within two inches of his head.

The quarterly meeting of the board of trustees of the Insane Hospital, Augusta, was held Tuesday and Wednesday. A large amount of routine work was done. Capt. Lakin tendered his resignation, but the board unanimously refused to accept it. Several persons were discharged. Among the number was Mrs Pennell, of Portland Ezra Gatchell, Esq, of Winthrop, proprietor of the Winthrop House, died suddenly of heart disease, Thursday night. He was in usual health when he retired.

Capt. Hiram Jack, of Monmouth, died Thursday evening, of pneumonia. He was about 75 years of age.

The Telegraph says that the increase in the prices of real estate in Richmond has been something unusual at least for Maine. Near the centres of business, land appears to be extravagantly high, and yet, when in the market finds a ready sale. A good many new buildings are going up, and this revival can be due to no other cause than to the establishment of manufactories there, though ship-building is still carried on to a limited extent. The new shoe shop is as big almost as the ordinary cotton mill, and employs about four hundred hands, young persons, mostly people' living there or in the immediate vicinity, and thus a home market is found for labor.

The Telegraph says that a man named Richard Roussen was run over by an engine, Sunday, in Topsham, and died Wednesday. He was intoxicated when run over.

Somerset.

The Journal says that Sunday, Mrs. Eugene Evans took by mistake from a bottle, about a teaspoonful of ammonia. It nearly strangled her and her sufferings were intense until the medicine of the physicians commenced its work. It took the skin from the mouth and upper part of the throat, and whatever she takes into the mouth has no taste. The escape from more serious results was a very narrow one.

York.

The Biddeford Times says that Mrs. Samuel Stackpole, of Berwick, 60 years old, committed suicide, Monday morning, by hanging. Her husband discovered her lifeless body hanging from a rope suspended from a rafter in the attic of their residence. She was subject to fits of despondency.

State at Large.

Patents.—Patents have been issued inventors as follows: Gibbs, John K, Lewiston, bobbin, Ranger, Reuben, East Wilton, presser bar for veneer cutters.

Help Wanted.—About twenty years ago John Duffield went to South America from the State of Maine, it is thought. He formerly had a brother in this State, but his present whereabouts is not known. John Duffield referred to, made his home in the northern part of the Argentine republic, and one day during the usual lull of business, which occurs at siesta time—from 11 to 3 o'clock, his store was entered by two men, who murdered him for the purpose of robbery. They did not succeed in securing his money, and he left a large estate to which his lawful heirs are entitled. He had no living relative in that part of the world, and his friends there are now in correspondence with Capt. John Anderson, of Bay City, Mich., to whom any communication relative to the matter may be addressed. If no claimants appear and establish their right to the property, it goes to the Republic.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

RESULTS OF THE EXAMINATION OF 18,000 PERSONS IN ENGLAND—DEFECTIVE VISION OF JEWS AND QUAKERS.

It appears from the report presented to a committee of the Ophthalmological Society by its Secretary, Dr. Brailey, that out of 18,088 persons examined (including boys in Eton, Westminster, and Christ's Hospital Schools and 5,000 members of the Metropolitan Police) the sight of upward of 750 persons was found defective. The average of defects was 12 times as great in males as among females, or 4.76 in the former and .4 in the latter. Among women, also, any but slight cases are very rare. Among men, on the contrary, they form rather less than half of the entire number. Therefore, the pronounced cases are at least 2 5 per cent., varying from this number in Eton School and the professional class to more than 3 5 in the Police and the poorer schools of London. The main defect in most of the pronounced cases, say in 2 per cent. of the whole number of males examined, is an inability to distinguish red from green. Red looks to those so affected as a very sombre color, in all probability as some shade of dark yellowish brown. Green is somewhat similar to this. They see other colors correctly, and by contrast very strongly. Jews are more color-blind than any other nationality, and their defects are usually of the pronounced kind. The members of the Society of Friends are rather more color-blind than the average, though the excess of their defects is principally constituted by the slightest forms of color-blindness—i. e., an inability to distinguish from each other the paler shades of most colors. Inmates of deaf and dumb asylums are very defective as regards colors.

Color-blindness does not mean a want of acquaintance with the names of colors. Mistakes from this cause are avoided by the mode of testing, which consists in giving the candidate a colored skein of wool, green to begin with, and asking him to pick out of a bundle all that are anything like that color, (not naming it.) Not notice is taken of inability to match shades of the same color. People who cannot tell red wools from green also fail to tell a red signal light from a green. Indeed, they often cannot see the red light at all unless they are much closer to it than to others. Examinations have not been made of railway servants in England till quite recently, and now on many lines the system is imperfect and incomplete. At sea no examination at all of common sailors is made. A collision at sea occurred near Norfolk, United States of America, in 1875, in which 10 persons were drowned, owing to the Captain mistaking a green light for a red. Five years later he was examined and found to be color-blind. Dr. Brailey thinks that those who confuse red with green see neither one color nor the other, but in the place of both some neutral shade, such as gray. He thinks that the greater deficiency of Quakers as compared with others is due to the fact that the poorer Quakers especially have been for many generations very ascetic in their houses and dress, avoiding the use of all colors Also that the Jews have strengthened their defects by the intermarriages which have been always the custom of the race. He obeeyes the natural love of dress and greater precocity of mind at an early period of life has been the cause of greater acuteness of color vision.

CURIOUSLY SHAPED HAIL-STONES.

A TERRIFIC SHOWER WHICH DROVE ALL HANDS TO SHELTER.

The Italian bark Gesuatas, Capt. Gelis, which arrived from Alexandria, is bound for New Haven. She landed at this port nine men who composed the crew of the Norwegian bark Cito, which was abandoned in latitude 34° 56' and longitude 73° 9' on May 19. The Cito sailed from Wilmington for Rotterdam under the command of Capt. Christiansen on May 5. For the first part of the voyage the weather was moderate, but at 5 P. M. on the 16th, in latitude 34° 1' and longitude 73° 38', a heavy gale from west-south-west came up suddenly. Near all the sails were blown away, and the bark was thrown on her beam ends. The storm continued for two hours, and the wind then shifted round to northward, and settled into a hard gale. The Cito righted again but still listed heavily. It was found that she was badly strained and had sprung a leak. Soundings showed three feet of water in the hold. The three pumps were manned, but she continued to leak at the rate of 250 strokes per hour, and it was impossible to free the hold of water. The bark rolled badly among the high seas, and her decks were constantly full of water. The weather continued unfavorable, and the pumps had to be worked almost constantly.

At 2 A. M. on the 19th, the bark was struck by another terrible gale. The air, which had been warm, suddenly became intensely cold, and for twenty minutes enormous hail-stones rattled among the rigging. The men were driven to shelter. Hail-stones, the size of hens' eggs, pelted the decks, smashing in the cabin sky-lights and causing other damage. As soon as the hail-squall had passed over the air suddenly became warm again, but the storm continued, and the bark was found to be leaking worse than ever. It was impossible to make any headway against the water below. The pumps did not work properly, and Captain Christiansen feared that it would be necessary to abandon the vessel, which was now rolling heavily in a terrific sea, and shipping vast quantities of water.

At 4 A. M. a vessel was sighted, and signals of distress were made. At 8 o'clock the stranger made an answering signal. Two hours later she was hove to near by. The Cito's crew launched their boat in the heavy sea and came alongside the other vessel, which proved to be the bark Gesuatas. The men saved only a portion of their effects and the ship's papers and instruments. When they were landed the Captain took his crew to the Norwegian Consul, who sent them to the Norwegian Sailors' Home, at No. 8 Carlisle street, where they are being well cared for. They say that they were treated with every kindness on board the Italian bark. They will be sent to their homes in Norway in a few days at the expense of the Scandinavian Government. The Cito belonged to Christian Blom, of Mendel, Norway, where she was built sixteen years ago. She was worth about $11,000, and is thought to have been insured in home companies. Her cargo consisted of resin, consigned to parties in Rotterdam.

The Gesuatas was 128 days in making the voyage, owing to head gales. During the night of the 16th, she was caught in a hail squall similar to that which the Cito experienced, and the brass tops of her side lights were broken off by hailstones as large as eggs and triangular in shape.

The brig Wilhelmina, which arrived from St. Jago last Sunday, passed the abandoned Cito on the 22d. An unknown bark which was lying to near by had just placed a prize crew on board of her. She was then in latitude 32° 23' and longitude 73° 39'.—N. Y. Times.

THE BRADLEY BRIBERY CASE.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

After full review of the facts in the Sessions-Bradley case, it seems to be impossible to reach any conclusion save one. Senator Sessions is not an idiot. On the contrary, he is a Senator of experience, and is thought by his enemies to have had particular experience in dealing with doubtful members. If this is true, it is utterly absurd to suppose that Mr. Sessions would put $2,000 into the hands of a member of doubtful reputation on his bare promise. Senator Sessions is an unmitigated fool, or the charge against him is untrue. The public verdict will be that Senator Sessions is not a fool.

Thus far, the matter is judged upon undisputed facts. But the case becomes much worse for Assemblyman Bradley when the other evidence is considered. His conduct, according to his own statement, was not that of an honest man. There is not an honest man in the State of New York, and certainly not a gentleman, who would have behaved as Mr. Bradley says he behaved. He says that he called upon Senator Sessions, his personal friend, early in the morning, and asked him what reason he should give for voting against Mr. Conkling. No other man than an infamous scoundrel could do that thing, and immediately go into the Assembly and charge the Senator with having paid him money. In this case, since there are only two witnesses, we are forced to judge from the conduct of the two men. Mr. Bradley cannot be believed unless upon the supposition that he is one of the most infamous creatures living—and in that case his word is worth nothing against that of Senator Sessions.

This is a "put up job" of the meanest and shallowest sort. Its effect already is favorable to Mr. Depew. Men who never voted for him before, and who confess that they had no intention of voting for him until this charge was made, declare publicly that they vote for him because they consider him wrongfully and infamously accused. It is not easy to see how sensible men can reach any other conclusion. Mr. Depew himself, it is true, is not accused. There is only a vague possibility, if Mr. Bradley's statements were true, that Mr. Sessions made a payment with the knowledge of the candidate or his authorized agent. But to believe that, it is necessary to believe that some other man was an incomprehensible and superfluous fool. It is hard to believe that of Mr. Sessions, or any other man of known shrewdness. As to Mr. Depew, it is simply impossible to believe that he, knowing all members of the Legislature and their ways, authorized or was cognizant of a payment so superlatively stupid as Mr. Sessions is said to have made. And yet the weight of evidence is decidedly that Mr. Sessions himself was never such an idiot.

The job is so "thin" and the pretence so flimsy that Mr. Depew gains votes in spite of it—or, rather, because of it. In truth, it is hard to see how any self-respecting man, with the instincts of a gentleman, can refuse his support to Mr. Depew after an attack so infamous. The vote of Mr. Depew rises to 56, after this charge, and that is a clear majority of all the Republican members of the Legislature. If a caucus nomination ever has any binding force, this vote has infinitely more. The man who will refuse to vote against Mr. Conkling after such a vote by a majority of the Republican members would certainly treat the dictates of any caucus with contempt. The Republican members have pronounced their judgment. They know Mr. Bradley and they also know Senator Sessions, and their decision is rightly influenced by the earnest and indignant declaration of Mr. Depew himself. Under the circumstances every Republican vote in the Legislature ought to be cast for the candidate who has been unjustly accused.

The member who votes for adjournment now must settle with his constituents. He is not only voting to put the control of the United States Senate into Democratic hands; he is voting to dishonor a worthy man infamously abused, and to carry out a Democratic plan not more decent than the Morey forgery. Constituents will see to-day what members take that position.

A PRACTICAL ILLUSTRATION OF FUSION REFORM.

The County Commissioners made an official trip to Oldtown, Saturday, as we learn, on an errand peculiar to the new Evangel of Reform, of which they are the official exponents in this locality. Their object was to appraise the ferry boat upon the ferry between Oldtown and Indian Island, preparatory to its transfer to a new appointee, whom, in the discharge of a high public trust, they have installed in the place of the former incumbent.

This ferry, established chiefly for the accommodation of the Penobscot Indians, was for nearly fifty years maintained by Mr. J. T. Davis, an unassuming citizen of Oldtown, and up to the time of his death in 1878. After that event the municipal officers, and leading citizens of Oldtown, irrespective of party, united in a petition to the County Commissioners, that the aged widow of Mr. Davis, might, by appointment, be permitted to maintain this ferry and retain the trifling income it afforded.

The Commissioners, at that time all Republicans, readily recognized the justice of this request; but having some doubt about the propriety of appointing a woman to maintain a ferry, they expressed a willingness to effect the purpose of the petitioners by licensing any one they might designate, who would hold the franchise in trust for her benefit.

Accordingly C. A. Bailey, Esq., was appointed as the nominal ferryman, but who, further than a supervisory care, has exercised no control over the ferry nor received any benefit therefrom, either directly or indirectly.

In April last it would appear that the present board of Commissioners attempted to take this ferry from Mrs. Davis and give it to W. H. Harriman, a cheap politician of their own persuasion of some local notoriety—not because of any fault with the management of it, but for the purpose of deposing Mr. Bailey, whose offense is that of being a Republican, although they were then, and had been for a long time prior thereto, well aware of his exact relation to it.

Through informality, that attempt was abortive, except to afford an occasion for a cheap hypocritical display of fusion sympathy for Mrs. Davis, accompanied by an ostentatious outburst of indignation, which they never felt, as the sequel shows; for no remonstrance from any one of the party has ever been made to the Commissioners against the proceeding.

At their recent meeting it is presumed the Commissioners consummated their purpose. The final act in the drama has just closed at Oldtown. Mr. Harriman is in the daily receipt of the "widow's mite." The honorable Commissioners have, we suppose, in their judgment (and we will not take issue with them) exemplified the true inwardness of the party whose chief corner stone was a pretence of profection to the poor. The Fusion party have scored another "victory." A new gospel to the poor is proclaimed; but as we turn the pages of the old, we read, nevertheless, in words of Him who spake as never man spoke:—"Woe unto you hypocrites, for ye devour widows' houses and for a pretence make long prayer; therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation."

THE EXCITEMENT AT ALBANY.

Investigating the Bribery Charges.

A Packed Committee.

[Albany Special to N. Y. Tribune, June 10.]

THE SENSATION.

The bribery sensation seems practically to have run its course. There have been no charges of any importance since those of Mr. Bradley were made, and there seems to be no reason to expect that any evidence can be obtained to substantiate Mr. Bradley's story beyond that already given. It is true that the investigation will last some time; will last indeed just so long as the committee appointed by Speaker Sharpe can make it last. The course of the committee thus far is such as to leave no doubt in the mind of any reasonable man that the majority proposes to keep the investigation open as long as possible; but it is evident that there can be no further disclosures respecting an alleged interview between two men in a room alone, concerning which each has already told his story; and it is a safe conclusion, therefore, that the bribery sensation reached its height when Mr. Bradley rose in the Assembly and announced that he had been given money to vote for Chauncey M. Depew.

It is not too early to make a review of the case thus far, and see what conclusions can be properly drawn. One most significant fact in connection with the investigation is that the Conkling managers, instead of pursuing the natural course of men who want only justice and are eager to lay bare the truth, are adopting the tactics usually followed by men who have nothing to gain and something to lose by inquiry.

In this investigation the unusual spectacle is presented of persistent delay by the men who make the charges and profess to be anxious to expose bribery; while the men who are practically resting under the charges are pushing on the inquiry.

The Conkling leaders first; secured control of the committee through Speaker Sharpe, who seems to have carefully packed it against Mr. Depew. This is a serious charge to make against a Speaker, but General Sharpe has left no room for any other opinion. Considering that the charges made affected a candidate for Senator, who had received before they were made the votes of close on to a majority of the whole number of the Republican members of the Legislature, it would have been mere Parliamentary decency in Speaker Sharpe to place upon the committee some of the many able and honorable men in the Assembly who have been recognized as friends of that candidate. No one of his friends would have asked anything more than a representation. Perhaps they would not have asked even that if they could have been assured that the committee would not be packed against him. The fact that the committee was made up without a single representative Depew man.

A PACKED COMMITTEE.

Mr. Scott, of Livingston, the nominal chairman, is a country lawyer, who has clearly demonstrated in the brief course of the inquiry entire inexpacity for the place. He has been like dough in the hands of Mr. E. A. Carpenter and Mr. Draper, two keen and active Conkling men, who have practically taken charge of the investigation. Mr. Scott has been visibly in doubt upon some occasions how to vote until Mr. Carpenter voted, when he promptly followed suit. Mr. Scott has been voting for Cordell and Bapham for Senators. He is a strong stalwart; but his district is known to be overwhelmingly against Conkling, and he is respecting, outwardly at least, the will of his constituents.

Mr. Boardman is a retired farmer, who is practically a second edition of Mr. Scott in this matter, though it is believed he is more likely to show independent judgment in the long run. He is the Assemblyman from Tompkins County, and is regarded as Governor Cornell's special representative. Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Draper, already mentioned, are as zealous for Mr. Conkling as Mr. Conkling himself could desire. This leaves only one Republican member—Mr. Skinner, of Jefferson. Mr. Skinner is now voting for Depew, but has only begun to do so of late, and is not what is called a Depew man. He is not a lawyer.

The two Democrats, Messrs. Brooks and Shanley, are among the abler members of the minority, and have shown a desire to give Mr. Depew's friends a fair chance, and have helped Mr. Skinner in that direction. Thus the strange spectacle has been witnessed of the candidate for Senator who is preferred by a majority of the Republican members owing most of the grace given in this committee to Democrats.

PARTISANSHIP AND UNFAIRNESS.

So much for the composition of the committee. Their action may be summed up briefly. Mr. Carpenter, the Conkling leader, first attempted last night, when Mr. Bradley had fired off his blank cartridge and the whole State was ringing with the story that he had been bribed by some person unknown to vote for Depew, to adjourn the committee until to-day. The purpose was evident; it was to leave this accusation hanging over Mr. Depew's head undefined, unstated and unanswered for the best part of twenty-four hours, and so, if possible, turn the tide against him in the State and in the Legislature. This was very much like the politics of the Thug.

Then, when he had been overruled in that, and Mr. Bradley had made his statement, the Conkling committeemen attempted to prevent Senator Sessions from making his statement until to-day. Here again the purpose was evident—to give Mr. Bradley's story twenty-four hours the start. This hardly needs characterization. If Mr. Sessions had been caught by a dozen witnesses in the act of handing over the money, the commonest decency would have required that he have the chance to send out his denial with the accusation.

Other actions of the committee have been less flagrant, but quite as effectual. To-night, for example, they refused to allow Mr. Bradley to be cross-examined by Senator Sessions's counsel, because neither he nor the the committee had any counsel present. The fact that they have allowed twenty-four hours to elapse without obtaining counsel is believed to be another evidence that they are working for delay. Mr. Bradley made the rather lame excuse that he wanted to find counsel as able as Mr. Smith and Mr. Peckham, who had not succeeded in doing so. Albany is full of lawyers who are accustomed to practice with these two gentlemen, and Mr. Bradley ought to have had no difficulty in finding one. Meantime, in default of a cross-examination, Mr. Armstrong of Oneida, was called to the stand, and told a story which bore against Mr. Depew, or possibly the committee would have found it impossible to hear it.

The friends of the Administration believe that the purpose of the Conkling leaders is to keep the investigation mill going, and to pour through it a steady stream of lobby stories against Mr. Depew, such as are always current about both sides in a fight of this kind. They think that by this means they will be able to check the growth of Mr. Depew's vote, and perhaps defeat him or aid their ultimate project of adjournment. They have been disappointed in the first object of the investigation. Mr. Depew has not only held his vote but has gained both to-day and yesterday; so that he has fifty-seven members, counting absentees. His friends believe he will continue to gain votes next week. To-morrow and Monday, however, are likely to be inclusive days, as the unfortunate habit of pairing has broken out again as it did last week, though not to such an extent.

IMPORTANT CONSIDERATIONS.

Finally, two facts should be noted: First, that there is not the slightest evidence to show that Mr. Depew had any connection with the alleged attempt at bribery, if there was one. Many of the cleanest men in the Legislature are supporting Mr. Depew, and they do not hesitate to say that the whole story is in their opinion; the conspiracy of a desperate faction. They think that a man who would do what Bradley says he has done would take bribes to tell the story. Second, that as the excitement calms down, as it has done noticeably to-day, the members of the Legislature are remembering that this controversy between Senator Sessions and Mr. Bradley constitutes no reason why they should overlook their duty here, which is to see that party treason is not rewarded with the highest offices in the gift of the State, and that the United States Senate is not wantonly surrendered to the Democratic party.

WESTFIELD, Mass., March 23, 1881.

J. W. KITTREDGE, Agent Elixir of Life Root:

Dear Sir:—Having suffered intensely for four years with disease of the Kidneys, after having during that time tried various medicines without obtaining relief, I was induced to try a bottle of your ELIXIR OF LIFE ROOT, and it affords me pleasure to say that one bottle of it completely cured me. I recommend it as the only valuable and certain cure for kidney troubles I have ever seen. I would add that before taking your medicine I had become so weak that I was about to give up work. Hoping that others who have suffered like myself may be so fortunate as to try your valuable medicine,

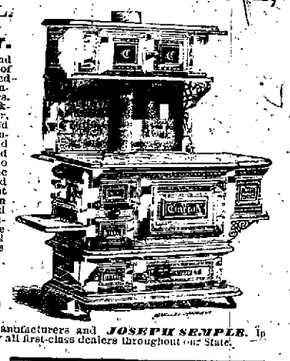
SOMETHING NEW.

NEW CLARION RANGE,

FOR WOOD OR COAL,

With Glass Oven Door.



We are now manufacturing this splendid and justly popular Cooking Range with a plate of thick French plate glass, 8 by 14 inches, inserted into the oven door. This improvement is valuable and can be best appreciated by housekeepers. All articles can be seen while in process of baking or roasting, without opening the oven door, thereby preventing all odors from escaping, and all kinds of pastry and cake from falling, and insuring a perfect success in roasting meat and poultry. The glass is the best French plate and capable of withstanding intense heat, while no smoke or steam can obstruct the view from the oven. The glass is in a frame which is attached inside of the door, and can be removed without danger of breaking, or replaced with a Cast Iron Panel and Nickle Name Plate, which is furnished with each Range with Glass Door. Many thousands of these ranges are in use. It is the smoothest, best made and most economical and durable Range ever sold in any State. Please call and examine it before purchasing.

Barry Co., in which is the town of Seven Star Spring, and before the people could reach the surrounding hills the torrent rushed down, taking with it houses, tents, household goods and animals. A woman and five small children were swept away, but fortunately lodged in the bushes and were rescued some hours after.

THE CONTEST IN ALBANY.

Investigating the Alleged Bribery Cases.

ANOTHER UNSUCCESSFUL BALLOT.

The Alleged Bribery Cases.

ALBANY, June 11. The Bribery Investigation Committee met at 9.30. Francis N.
Bangs appeared as counsel for the committee. He explained that he was called upon unexpectedly and had not seen or heard the testimony. He had had no opportunity to consult with the witness and felt himself unfit to enter upon the investigation at this time. The committee agreed to ask permission of the House to sit during its sessions.

Wm. K. Trimble, member of the Assembly from the 21st District, was sworn and testified that he had conversations with persons on the subject of the election of Senator at his room in the Delavan House; was with a gentleman named Edwards; don't know where he resides; have a passing acquaintance with him; have no knowledge of what his business is; there was no arrangement for a meeting so far as I was concerned; he came to my room between 8 and 9 o'clock P. M., Tuesday; he walked in, sat down and introduced the Senatorial question; he ask why I continued to vote for Conkling and Platt when there was no chance of electing them; I told him I did not agree with him. He asked me what my expenses were. I said between $2,000 and $2,500. He said that if friends of Depew would pay these expenses would I not change my vote. I told him I would not; that if I changed my vote it would be for other reasons. This conversation was interjected into the general conversation. I understood him to mean by my expenses my election expenses and expenses here; that was all the conversation I had with him.

To Brooks—I meant when I told him that I would not change unless some arrangement was made, that unless there was some other combination of candidates agreed upon by my party; my opinion of Edwards was that which would be yours, or any other honest man's, that he was a d—d rascal.

To Scott—I have seen this man Edwards several times during the session; but don't know his first name.

To Bradley—Can't say how I first met Edwards.

To Scott—I have heard he was a lobbyist.

To Skinner—I have reason now to believe that he is.

Raines, the member of the assembly from Ontario County, asked permission to ask the witness a question and was permitted to hand the question to the committee for consideration.

E. A. Carpenter asked the witness if he was advised to make his statement before the committee rather than in the House.

Witness—No sir.

E. A. Carpenter—Did Raines advise you to make a statement here?

Witness—Raines told me I had better make it to the committee and not in the House.

Witness here left the stand; the Committee then adjourned to 9 A. M. Monday.

Chamber, the Speaker announced that no choice of U. S. Senator in either case had been made.

On motion of Scott the committee investigating the alleged bribery was allowed to sit during the sessions of the House.

The Assembly then adjourned to Monday at 12 M. The Senate also adjourned to Monday.

Rumors and Speculations.

NEW YORK, June 11. Conkling and Platt, it is understood, will return to Albany to-morrow, or next day, to continue the contest. It is stated that the Stalwart leaders have put the half breeds on the defensive on the bribery case. The rumor is denied that Grant will go to Albany to aid in the struggle for Conkling and Platt.
A Stalwart leader said that by doing so Grant would work more harm than good and compromise himself in many ways.
He could do more service by coming to New York and presiding over a public meeting endorsing the resignation of Conkling and Platt, and their candidacy for re-election. Senator Birdseil, a half breed leader, gave it as his opinion that Depew's vote would be materially incresed during the coming week and that the Stalwarts would eventually be thrown up.
The train which arrived in this city from Albany at 7 P. M., brought most of the New York and Brooklyn members of both houses, and a number of political followers.

Bradley Indorsed by his Townsmen.

ALBANY, June 11. Assemblyman Bradley has received a despatch from Olean, largely signed by his fellow townsmen, urging him not to lose heart and condemning the attacks by the press on his character.

Gen. Ben. Butler to act as Counsel for the Investigating Committee.

NEW YORK, June 11. An Albany despatch to the Commercial Advertiser says that Ben. Butler is to conduct the case for the Investigating Committee in the bribery charge against Sessions.

MARYLAND.

Political.

BALTIMORE, June 11. William Pinkey Whyte, ex-U. S. Senator, was to-day nominated by the Democratic Conservative party as their candidate for Mayor of this city. Mr. Whyte had been previously nominated by a half-breed party of gentlemen, styling themselves a "committee of one hundred." The election takes place in October.

NEW YORK.

The Henley Regatta.

LONDON, June 11. The Sportman severely criticises the action of the stewards of the Henley regatta, in refusing to allow the Cornell University four to enter for the race for the visitors' plate, on the ground that the contest is only open to colleges and schools. The Sportsman says "this is no reason as the Cornell crew is a college crew."

The Yorktown Celebration.

The Thirteenth Regiment of Brooklyn took definite action last night for their trip to the Yorktown celebration, and appointed committees including Col. Austin, Chaplain Beecher, Gen. Christesen, Gates Woodward and Col. Horatio King, to perfect all arrangements.

DISASTROUS FLOOD.

THE OHIO RIVER OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS,

Causing an Immense Amount of Damage.

STEUBENVILLE, June 12. Never in the history of the Ohio river, since 1810, has there occurred such a flood in the month of June as the present one. Almost six days of constant rain throughout this section, extending to the head waters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, brought a flood that carried with it destruction on every hand, from Pittsburg to Wheeling, a distance of ninety miles. The rivers at this point commenced to rise Thursday evening and from three feet the increasing waters forced their way upward, until passing over the high banks and completely submerging Riverside Park, the water entered the first stories of all business houses and residences on Water street, and continued to rise until 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when the river remained stationary for about three hours, after which it began to fall very slowly.

The Cleveland & Pittsburg Railroad in this city was submerged for about two miles. The water was up to the passenger depot, while the freight department was completely surrounded. All business on the road was suspended to-day with the exception of a few trains north of the city.
For miles the track is under water. Great suffering has been caused in the sixth ward, almost the entire ward being under water, and 500 people have been compelled to leave their homes. The loss to property and the destruction of crops in the valley will reach $1,000,000. One farmer near the city had 200 head of sheep drowned and his entire crops of wheat and corn is submerged. Hundreds of acres of valuable land, mostly wheat, above and below the city, are from two to five feet under water.

All works were stopped to-day partly owing to the water works being completely surrounded by water. Navigation was suspended and no boat has dared to venture out. Brown's Island, a great summer resort, six miles above the city, containing nearly 200 acres, is almost entirely submerged and greatly damaged. It is one of the most beautiful island in Ohio. During the entire day the surface of the river has been covered with all kinds of debris, parts of houses, rafts, fences and barges. The village of Warren, 15 miles below this city, a town of 600 inhabitants, is completely submerged and the people have been driven from their homes. No lives have been lost as far as can be learned to-night.

ILLINOIS.

Secretary Windom in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 11. Secretary Windom was introduced on change at noon, in company with Mayor Harrison, and other prominent citizens, and received with every manifestation of friendship and enthusiasm. He made a short address in the course of which he reverted to the magnificent and unparalled development of the agricultural industry of this country. He gave some facts as to the growth of the city and surrounding sections, and strongly endorsed the scheme now under way of connecting the Mississippi River and Great Lakes by means of a ship canal. He referred to his efforts in Congress in behalf of the improvement of water ways, as a means of cheapening transportation and thereby regulating the rail rates, which sometimes become exorbitant. He assured the grain men of the northwest of his hearty sympathy and support in any plan of this kind to cheapen the rates to the seaboard of the products of the farm. He mentioned the well known facts of the success of the refunding operation, and said the good times which are now upon us seem to have come to stay. It was, however, by no means sure that such is the case. We shall be forewarned of their departure and the signs will be the growing extravagance of living, reckless speculation and spendthrift habits, and the turning of the balance of trade from our shores, so that we send away our riches instead of increasing them. Secretary Windom leaves for Washington to-morrow morning.

Reception by the Union League Club.

The reception of Secretary Windom by the Union League Club this evening was a brilliant affair. It was largely attended by the professional, official and mercantile gentleman of this city, and although very informal was a cordial mark of respect to the new Secretary. Gen. Sheridan, Judge Blodgett, Jas. Medill, Herman Roster, Congressman Willet, Emery Storrs and others of note were among the guests who sat down late in the evening to the collation. There were no speeches.

The Indians.

CHICAGO, June 11. The scout, E. K.
Allison, who has been instrumental in bringing into camp many of Sitting Bull's Sioux, is here and reports that Sitting Bull is 170 miles north of the line in Quappelle where he and his followers are obliged to make all sorts of shifts for a livelihood. The Sioux are intending to send several of their Chiefs to Washington to apply for a stated reservation, where they may live and die in peace.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Races.

PARIS, June 12. The race for the grand prize of Paris took place to-day, and resulted in another victory for an American horse. J. R. Keene's Foxhall was the winner, with Mr. Lefver's Tristan second, Count De La Grange's Albion third. The contest was a close and exciting one, especially near the finish. Tristan joined Foxhall at the distance and both ran a grand race home, Foxhall staying longer and won by a head.

here that an Italian exploring party which started from Assabby, Abyssinia, consisting of a subaltern officer, ten sailors and four soldiers, have been massacred in the sued an order stating that no discharge of enlisted men will be granted upon frivolous pretexts. They will be required to men are enlisted for five years.

SHEEP KILLED BY LIGHTNING. One of the most peculiar freaks of lightning happened in Milo, Sunday, June 5th. Mrs.
B. F. Manter had quite a large flock of sheep which were in a pasture near Pleasant river, and after the shower he found thirty-three sheep killed under one tree.

REFORMERS' MEETING. The meeting held yesterday afternoon by the Reform Club, although small in numbers, was interesting and earnest in its programme.
Vice President Sheedy occupied the chair; Miss Annie Page read the 72d Psalm, and Chaplain Randall offered prayer. The following were the speakers: Messrs. Sheedy, Stevens, Ames, Page and Montgomery, of the Club; Rev. Charles A. White of Hallowell; Mrs. Prentiss and Mrs. Crossman of the Crusade.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Somerset Railroad Company, held at West Waterville, on the 8th inst., when a new board of directors was chosen, the report of Wm. M. Ayer, acting superintendent, showed the road-bed and rolling stock to be in excellent condition. No accident has occurred on the line during the past year.
The road is managed with ability and economy, and under all the circumstances had done a good freight and passenger business and an increase over previous years.

DEATH FROM AN UNKNOWN CAUSE.
Sunday, 5th inst., as a wild engine was passing through Topsham, on the Maine Central Railroad, the engineer saw a man lying beside the track, but hardly near enough to be struck by the engine. He stopped, took the man on board and carried him to Brunswick. There were contusions on the side of his head and on his back. He became conscious and lived until Wednesday. He is said to have told the story that he was drunk and that the engine struck him. To his physician, however, he says that he had no remembrance of what occurred to hurt him. He gave his name as Richard Rosseau, and said that he was a sailor, with a mother living in Nantucket.

A PECULIAR FAMILY. Fourteen years ago a Maine man left his wife and child at dinner and sauntered away. One day, ten years later, he sat in a hut under the comfortable shadow of Table Mountain, Cal., a tired, unlucky miner, and was eating his brunette bacon and beans. His wife and daughter (the latter grown to be a young lady) entered. He raised his eyes from his plate, said "Ye've got here at last, have ye?" and continued his meal. Two years later the woman disappeared from home.
The other day the mother was fourth in a San Francisco walking match, credited with 398 miles, and the daughter, forsaken by a lover, tried to drown herself, was confined in Oakland while laboring under temporary insanity, and is now in care of her mother.

ARRIVAL OF BARNUM'S TRAINS. By five o'clock yesterday afternoon the Maine Central depot was filled with people awaiting the coming of Barnum's trains, which had been announced to arrive between five and six o'clock. Every available position was occupied; the roofs of freight cars, the sheds, and the bluffs along the river banks were taken possession of, but the trains came not. Finally it became known that the trains were delayed and would not arrive until quite late in the evening, and the crowds reluctantly dispersed. The first train arrived at 10.40 P. M., the second at 11.0, and the third at 11.15, and notwithstanding the lateness of the hour they were greeted by an immense assemblage of people.

A SEARCH AND SEIZURE EXCITEMENT.
There was a lively time on Broad street Saturday in consequence of a search and seizure. A seizure had been made, but while the officer was reading his warrant, the liquor was taken from him by some of the bystanders and made away with.
While officers were in search of teams to carry away the barrels of ale that were stored in the cellar, other teams were busy carting the stuff away to places of safety. We were told that one of the officers was struck in the back by a weight, and that violence was freely threatened.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONCERT LAST EVE-NING. The Sabbath School Concert at Hammond street church last evening was well attended and of an interesting character. The exercises opened with a selection by a quartette composed of Messrs.
Holden and Barnaby and Misses Woodbury and Henry. This was followed by singing by the school, led by Mr. Holden, with piano accompaniment by Miss Berry; the selection was beautifully rendered.
Miss McSkimmon read a piece in memory of Mr. Kimball, lately deceased, formerly a beloved and most efficient worker in the Sabbath School. The quartette sang a second selection, which was followed by interesting and instructive remarks by Prof. Stearns and Dr. Wallace.

UP-RIVER NOTES—THE DRIVES. Our correspondent "Nopen" writes from Winn: The third Mattawamkeag drive is between Gordan Falls and Sluegundy, a short distance below Kingman. The East Branch drive, under the charge of Ed. Perry, of Sherman, is at Grindstone Falls, about eight miles above Medway, with no logs of any account coming out at Medway. A heavy jam is reported at Rocky Rips a mile or so below. The West Branch drive is at Rockabema, some two to four miles above Medway, the forward drive in charge of Steve Stanislous. The main drive is driven by J. A. Smart and John Morrison. A good quantity of logs are seen on and about the Five Islands.— Several drifts of snow are visible on the crest of Mt. Katahdin from this vicinity.
——Very severe frosts were experienced in this vicinity the nights of the 5th and 6th inst., destroying considerable vegetation, tomatoes, beans, etc., and fruit. There was also a frost Thurday night last.——A large crowd is expected to go to Bangor the 13th.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONCERT. The Sabbath School connected with the First Baptist church, held a very interesting concert at that church last evening, which was quite fully attended. The exercises were opened by a trio by Misses Trundy, Sweet and Silsby, followed by Scripture reading by the Superintendent and the school; singing by the school; prayer; singing by the infant class; answers to questions by the infant class; singing by the school; a sketch from the life of Jera-boam, by Mr. Wardley; singing by the congregation; a sketch from the life of Daniel, by the superintendent, Dea. J. R.
Robinson; reading of the Beatitudes with response, by the choir; closing with the singing of "Antioch," by the congregation.
The exercises were of unusual interest, much of which was contributed by the fine singing of the choir composed of Misses Trundy and Sweet and Messrs. Silsby and Stewart. Miss Katie Stewart presided at organ. The exercises of the infant class won the admiration of all.

ARREST AND RESISTANCE. About ten o'clock Saturday night Officer Colson was called upon to arrest a fellow named Governor, in Exchange street. As the officer was taking his prisoner to the station, a crowd followed and by abuse and threats to the officer, encouraged the prisoner to resist. A struggle ensued, but the officer clung to his man; the crowd became more demonstrative, when other officers appeared upon the scene, including Marshal Reed. Two other arrests were made and three men were marched into the station.
Threats were freely made by the crowd that they would "clean out the police force." The well-known forbearance of our police force has encouraged the worst elements in our city, and the practice of resisting the officers while in the discharge of their duties has become of late of altogether too frequent occurrence. If this continues, the roughs will learn ere long that "desperate cases require desperate treatment," and that there is a remedy known to the law that is highly applicable to their needs.

THE BARNUM & LONDON UNITED SHOWS. The long-looked for day has arrived, bringing with it an overflow of peopeople from the surrounding towns, all eager to see the great and only Barnum and the "four biggest shows in the world combined." The grandiose street procession will undoubtedly be the grandest pageant ever witnessed; its gold-glittering chariots, vans and dens, the grand array of mounted ladies and gentlemen dressed in brilliant military and civic costumes, elephants in royal housings, camels in harness and under saddle, together with its innumerable other sensations, are scenes only to be witnessed during the procession of "the greatest show on earth."
Of the exhibition beneath the canvass it may be remarked that the number of performers engaged is so large that it would be impossible for them all to perform in one ring and conclude the performance at a reasonable hour. Consequently there are three rings, but the programme is so arranged that attractions in the same line of business occupy the different rings at the same time.

Sons of Maine at Chicago.

At the Palmer House, Chicago, Monday evening a meeting was held of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the Sons of Maine banquet to be given at the Palmer House on the 10th instant.
It was reported that the following persons from Maine had accepted the invitation of the committee and would be present: The Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, the Hon. James G. Blaine, General S. J. Anderson, the Hon. Bion Bradbury, L. D. M. Sweat and C. A. Boutelle. Many other distinguished sons of Maine have been invited and will be present without doubt.

Among other gentlemen natives of Maine, but now residents of other States, who will probably be present are: Massa chusetts, J. D. Washburne, Hon. Henry W. Paine, Hon. J. T. Trowbridge, George F.
Emery of the Boston Post, and Gov. J. D.
Long; Georgia, H. J. Kimball; Pennsylvania, Hon. G. F. Morelle; Wisconsin, Hon. D. H. Wells; Minnesota, M. H. Dun-nell; Iowa, ex-Gov. Samuel Merrill; Washington, D. C., Hon. Horatio King.

Mr. Henry A. Hersey of Chicago, one of the committee of arrangements, will take charge of the party from the East, which leaves Boston at eight o'clock Tuesday morning in a special train, and will reach Chicago Wednesday even-

THE BOSTON GIRL.

BY DAVID S. POSTER.

I told her of a maid whose mind Was filled with tender thoughts and fancies, A lovely being of the kind They write about in old romances.
"Knowest thou," said I, "this maiden fair, Whose beauty doth my thought beguile?" She answered with a dreamy air—
"Well, I should smile!"

"Her cheeks possess the rose's hue, No form is dainties or completer, No hair so brown, no eyes so blue, No mouth is tenderer or sweeter.
The favored youth who gains the hand Of this fair girl will never regret it." With modest grace she added: "And Don't you forget it."

"Oh thou dear mistress of my heart!
My angel! let me kneel before thee And say how heavenly sweet thou art,
And how devoutly I adore thee."
She turned away her lovely head,
And with a languid look that fired My soul, in murmured accents said—
"You make me tired."

HARD WORK.

In speculative times like the present, financial centres are overrun with sanguine men who have something to sell or something to offer which promises a royal road to fortune. Newspapers sometimes report accounts of men who have become suddenly rich; lotteries thrive through the vain hope of luck in the minds of simple people; individuals frequently become discontented with their present condition, and long for some grander opportunity, always in some distant locality, to accumulate wealth without work.

Such accumulation is against the natural law of things. Fortunes do not come by the simple asking. Success is only achieved by long and patient toil. Industry and prudence are the safest guides to prosperity. Hard work is the natural lot of mankind in general, and it is no use trying to dodge it. Experience, study and observation give the wisdom to make every blow count, and to lessen the hours of toil necessary to accomplish a given end, but no patent device can remove the necessity for industry in the human race.

Ben. Franklin says, industry need not wish, and he that lives upon hopes will die fasting. There are no gains without pains; then help, hands, for I have no lands; or, if I have, they are smartly taxed. He that hath a trade hath an estate, and he that hath a calling hath an office of profit and honor; but then the trade must be worked at, and the calling followed; or neither the estate nor the office will enable us to pay our taxes. If we are industrious, we shall never starve; for, at the workingman's house hunger looks in, but dares not enter. Nor will the bailiff or the constable enter, for industry pays debts, while despair increases them.

"Nothing," says Reynolds, "is denied well-directed labor, and nothing is to be attained without it." "Excellence in any department," says Johnson, "can now be attained by the labor of a life-time, but it is not to be purchased at a less price." Said Sidney Smith: "There is but one method, and that is hard labor, and a man who will not pay that price for distinction had better at once dedicate himself to the pursuit of a fox."

He that from small beginnings, says an ancient writer, has deservedly raised himself to the highest station, may not always find that full satisfaction in the possession of his object that he anticipated in the pursuit of it. But, although the individual may be disappointed, the community are benefitted, first by his exertions, and secondly, by his example; for, it has been well observed, that the public are served not by what the Lord Mayor feels who rides in his coach, but by what the apprentice boy feels who looks at him.

"What is the secret of your success?" asked a lady of Turner, the distinguished painter. He replied, "I have no secret, madam; but hard work." Says Dr. Arnold: "The difference between one man and another is not so much in talent as in energy."

"Step by step," reads the French proverb, "one goes very far." "Nothing is impossible," says Mirabeau, "to a man who can and will. This is the only law of success." "Have you ever entered a cottage, or travelled in a coach, ever talked with a peasant in a field, or loitered with a mechanic at the loom," asked Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton, "without finding that each of these men has a talent you have not?"

The most useless creature that yawned at a club, or idled in rags under the suns of Calabria, has no excuse for want of intellect. What men want is not talent, but purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor.

THE GIRLS DISCUSS THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The night before last the Utica Croquet Club—composed entirely of young ladies—held its second meeting for the season of 1881. Two new members were admitted, and proposals for membership were made. The committee on resolutions made their expected report. The resolutions were written on scented paper and penned with violet ink. After the business of the evening had been finished, the young lady sitting on the ottoman suddenly exclaimed:

"Oh, my, girls, did you hear about Conkling?"

"No. What is it?" said the four misses on the settee in one breath.

"Why, he's resigned!"

"Resigned to what. Has he been dangerously sick?" said the secretary.

"No, no. Can't you understand? He has given up his senatorship."

"Goodness gracious! Ain't that too bad!"

"How much did he get for it?" queried the girl with the album in her lap.

"Why, you silly thing, you ought to read the newspapers. Senator Conkling got dissatisfied with something in Washington and resigned his office into the hands of Governor Cornell. There was a misunderstanding between him and the President about some man named Rob—Robert—Roberts—Let me see. Robinson—No, that ain't it. Oh, yes—Robertson. Dear suz! They say the whole country's in a crisis."

"I read all about that," said the President of the Club, knowingly. "Senator Conkling and this Robertson had some kind of a fuss—while they were trying a lawsuit. Come to think, Mr. Conkling wanted to give him some instruction and Robertson wouldn't have it. Then the President appointed Robertson to collect money in some ward in New York city—"

"That wasn't it," interrupted the first speaker. "The President told Mr. Robertson to stand at some lock—a dead lock, they call it—and see that the canal boat captains paid their tolls. The man who was put out of a job by Mr. Robertson getting the situation used to go to school with Mr. Conkling."

"What I want to know," said the young lady in the corner, "is how could the President order these men around so? Didn't I read in a paper the other day that Mr. Conkling was the boss?"

"My sakes! that's funny," ejaculated the secretary. "I heard my brother say it was a man named Blaine who came here from Canada and wanted to run the whole country, who caused the disturbance. The President made this Blaine a present of a cabinet organ and then he never stopped begging until he had got a whole set of furniture, too. That made the other men who didn't get anything jealous."

"What were the guns firing for to-day?" asked the girls on the settee.

"You see the Senate helped Robertson to get this job," answered the first speaker, "and the half-breeds were so glad they borrowed some cannons."

"Who are the half-breeds? Indians?"

"I am not sure, but I don't think they are. They must have come here when the canal opened."

"Girls," suddenly exclaimed the President of the meeting, "do you know I think that firing was a real battle. I read in the paper last week about the 'War on the President.' Isn't it awful?"

"And I saw 'How the bomb struck!'"

"Oh, those horrid half-breeds!" ejaculated five voices at once.

"Yes," continued the president, "and I believe they are going to be commanded by that General Mahone, who came to Washington with a red shirt on and tried to scare everybody."

"I am going home," faintly said the secretary.

"Let us all go together," said the girls on the settee.

"O, I hope we won't meet any half-breeds," was the utterance of the president of the meeting.

Croquet was forgotten, the political rehearsal was brought to an abrupt end and ten girls lost no time in reaching their respective homes.—Observer.

THE EARLY HAY CROP. It will soon be time to cut the early crop of hay. There are a number of things to determine the proper time to do this work; first as to the feeding value of the hay. For this, as far as quality is concerned, there is no doubt that the grass and clover should be cut a trifle before the period of full blossom. From this time on to near the end of blossoming, though there may be an increase in the weight of the hay gathered, it is of much poorer quality; the nutritive elements have not increased materially, but there is a much larger per cent. of indigestible woody fibre. Secondly, the value of the aftermath is increased by the early cutting, as it has ten or twenty days longer to grow. Thirdly, there is a practical advantage in cutting the hay early, as it prolongs the haying season and permits of less hurry and therefore more care in gathering the crop. These points apply equally well to the grain crops, they being too frequently harvested later than is best for the richest fodder and the finest quality of grain.

THE RUSSIAN MAZZINI. M. Aksakoff, the President of the Moscow Slavonic society, and the editor and proprietor of the Slavonic organ, the Russ, has been styled at times the Russian John Bright and the Slavonic Mazzini. He is the most eloquent of Russian orators and the most earnest apostle of the Slavonic cause. Fearless, uncompromising, and ardent, it would be difficult to find a Russian outside of officialdom more powerful or more distinctly representative of Russian ideas than M. Aksakoff. It is therefore worthy of note as a political event of considerable importance that at yesterday's meeting of the Moscow Slavonic Society he should have emphatically condemned the proposal to establish a Constitution after the Western model in Russia. Therein he is the consistent exponent of the views of the national party in Russia, the only party which, having the mass of the nation at its back, can be relied on in times of crisis, such as those of the emancipation of the serfs, the insurrection in Poland, or the war in the East. What it seeks is not a Western European Parliament, but a re-establishment of the Zemskie Sobor—a kind of Russian States-General—with consultive functions only. The presence of M. Pobedonesteff at the meeting adds to its significance, for to the new reign the influence of M. Pobedonesteff, the Czar's former tutor and trusted counselor, is certain to be great.

The Reformer and Vitalizer of the Blood.

The Producer and Invigorator of Nerve and Muscle.

The Builder and Supporter of Brain Power.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOSPHITES is composed of ingredients identical with those which constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve, and Brain Substance, whilst Life itself is directly dependent upon some of them.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtaxed or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Congestion of the Lungs.

It cures Asthma, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diphtheria.

The expenditure of brain power too early or too severely in children often results in physical debility; the use of Fellows' Hypophosphites exerts a singularly happy effect in such cases.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

FRESH ASPARAGUS.

A Mocking Demon Stalking Abroad. All Danger from it averted by a Skillful Physician.

There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, and it has, not inaptly, been termed "St. Anthony's Fire." There is no disease which so completely deforms and disfigures the visage of the patient, and it may fairly be compared to a red mask thrown by a mocking demon over the human face. It is almost as dangerous as it is repulsive. Arising from a variety of causes, running its course with pain—it often ends suddenly in death. The old treatment consisted of blood-letting and the use of strong drastic purgatives. The substance of the enlightened modern treatment is all contained in Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." Use this, and you have taken the essential total of all the best physicians in the land could prescribe for Erysipelas." A case in point. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., writes that he had for some time been afflicted with this disease in both legs, and has regained his health by the sole use of "Favorite Remedy." Other cases might be cited did space permit. "Favorite Remedy" is also sure in its action in all other diseases of the blood. Ask your druggist for it, or address the Proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.
